Logline: From small bits and pieces of seemingly random spots of light and darkness silhouettes of bodies appear.

Synopsis: As in a moment of awakening the film slowly develops into awareness. From small bits and pieces of seemingly random spots of light and darkness silhouettes of bodies appear. Is it a dream or just a constantly evolving moment of thought?

Director's statement: With this film my aim was to gently invite a viewer to delve into one's own memories, lived experiences and bring into being your own unique narratives. As in a moment of awakening during first confused states of mind between deep sleep and wakefulness the film slowly develops into awareness. The film does not tell one specific, fixed story, but gives hints and opens up new possibilities of interpretation. As something always changing, shifting, and hard to capture, the sand and light used to create this film, enhance the futility of our constant efforts to fix and to freeze in time emotions, states of mind, people, things and places - like in a snapshot.
